

briefcase

The latest business news from Dublin

NATHEAN ANNOUNCE JOB CREATION

DUBLIN DATA ANALYTICS software company, Nathean have announced they are hiring eight to ten new employees. This rapidly developing company is keeping pace with the increasing need for analytic software in businesses. Nathean provides easy-to-use, highly-intuitive data analysis software which is helping business users at all levels to manage budgets, resources and costs more effectively. The increasing need for such software sees Nathean predict a rise of 50 per cent in revenues and exports this year. After receiving a fresh investment of €800,000, the expansions in the company will fall under a range of roles to support the increase in exports. This investment is being supported by Enterprise Ireland and existing investors. The previous round of investment by Nathean of more than €1m in its Logix Professional software suite, enabled it to develop unique pre-packed analytics for both ERP and niche business software applications.